One of the greatest challenges facing healthcare organizations is resource scalability to meet business demands. The cost of recruiting, training, ramping up and developing resources to meet practice demands continue to increase exponentially. Ensuring availability of skilled operational and or niche resources can mean having these resources sit idle during periods of low demand or change. In addition, many organizations have faced scalability limitations due to lack of facility space.

eMDs has over two decades experience developing successful workforce augmentation solutions that help organizations meet business demands and a fraction of the cost. Our team of regulatory, payment, and credentialing experts provide organizations with greater scalable flexibility that reduces resource ramp-up time and cost. Organizations can concentrate on implementing go-to-market strategies without the constraints of hiring additional resources.

Our Dual-Shore Outsourcing model of over 500 full time employees provides full service revenue cycle management services and business process outsource management.
